Additional Comments:

Charity is a wonderful instructor!

Charity: She is an outstanding instructor and I would recommend this course to anyone.

Definitely a great class and it gives you the opportunity to learn from your peers and view the perspective of others.

I liked this class. Even though there was a lot of writing required and critiquing due. It really forced me to push myself a little harder with my writing. I appreciated the feedback and everything I got from the teacher.

Loved the use of blogs and narrative paper. The exercises if used correctly by students were great, I really do feel like a better writer - something that I have never felt after an English course. Thanks!

Readings were heavily stressed. Professor was often busy with other courses and our graded assignments were returned to us past the date originally stated. My only complaint was the untimeliness of the grading. Overall, helpful and informative course.

The instructor is highly energetic, witty and intelligent. She occasionally goes on tangents but they are germane to the lesson. Her grading is sometimes somewhat uneven; because she juggles multiple classes, coursework for her own major and roller derby practice (!), contacting her is sometimes hit-or-miss. She does promptly return emails, though. She is willing to work with students if they have personal issues that interfere with coursework. Her discussions are often very frank and her criticisms can be blunt, but are packaged well so that the student doesn't feel insulted or angry. Her comments are insightful and designed to generate discussion and reflection. She is one awesome lady. I would recommend her classes to anyone who wants a challenge and doesn't mind pulling all-nighters. My only real complaint is with the course load--it almost seems excessive.

This instructor is involved in a doctoral program. At times this seemed to get in the way of prompt responses to assignments.

This is one of the best classes I've taken at VCU. The only thing I would recommend is that she instruct more on the readings instead of leaving it as open discussion for the class. I feel like more of her teaching would have prepared me even better. But, I enjoyed how much interest she showed in her students. You could tell that she really cared.
